City Hall and Park Bond Ordinances Ready for Publication.

PASSED BY COUNCIL AND SIGNED BY MAYOR With Printing of Measures Today

Proposition is Squarely Before the People, Who Must Settle It. The city hall and park bond ordinance were read for the third time at the meeting of the city council last evening. Mayor Koutsky signed the ordinances at once and also signed the notice which is to be printed for thirty days in the official paper of the city. These ordinances and the notice of the proposition will appear in print this No change has been made in the original draft of the ordinances. The voters of South Omaha will be called upon at the November election to give assent or diasent to the proposition to issue $70,000 for a city hall building and site and $40,000 for park purposes.

With today's publication of the ordinances and the notice of the mayor the proposition is squarely before the people. Should the city hall proposition carry the mayor and council will be expected to select a site and have charge of the letting of contracts for the construction of the building. On that if the bonds carry the council will first Bros. coal office.

No Heat Yet. City officials were wearing overcoats incaused by the low temperature in the city building. So far this year there has not been a sign of a fire in the steam heating plant. Last night Chief Briggs declared it was an imposition to keep prisoners in a jail where there was no heat. Those confined for minor crimes were turned loose with instructions to report to the police judge this morning. 'Steps will be taken today by the city officials to start the heating plant. Mrs. Hall Honored. Mrs. James A. Hall returned from Lincoln vesterday, where she attended the session of the grand lodge of the Degree of Honor. Mrs. Hall was elected to the office of grand lady of honor, which is next to the highest office in the gift of the grand lodge of the state. Last evening Mrs. Hall was called upon by many of her friends, who congratulated her upon her election.

PROFESSOR GLEASON COMING Five Exhibitions of His Wonderful Power to Be Given at the Auditorium.

The recent Horse Show has had a tendency to awaken quite a horse interest in Omaha and now we are to have the national horse expert and educator, Prof. O. R. Gleason, at the Auditorium for a series of five exhibitions beginning Tuesday night,

Prof. Gleason is said to be the highest expert horseman of the world and the public and press of various cities are unanimous in their praise of his work. The following is an extract from the Boston Evening Record:

'Prof. Oscar R. Glesson opened the second week of his exhibition of horse training last night in the Winslow rink with an audience of over 4,000 people and 2,000 more were turned away. Prof. Gleason gave a wenderful exhibition. His power over vicious horses is something marvelous. After he had handled several nervous and vicious horses the feature of the evening was when he handled a horse which has killed one man and nearly killed two others. He spent over an hour and a quarter in conquering the animal, and during that period was kicked in the leg so severely that he was carried from the ring. With great courage he returned limping to the ring and continued to work. During the entire performance the audience was in an uproar of applause. Finally when the trainer was nearly exhausted the animal was conquered. Prof. Gleason, notwithstanding his

SAN FRANCISCO. Oct. 7.—The Merchanis' exchange has received a cable dispatch from London stating that the steamer Mineola, Captain Kirkwood, bound from Petropaviovsk, Siberia, for this port, struck a reef off the Tigil bar, on September 5 and became a total wreck. The officers and crew were rescued and taken to Hakodate, Japan, by the British warship Algerine.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES

'David Garrick's Love," at the Boyd. ay in three acts, given in Omaha for first time, by the following cast:

Mrs Jontmorency Smith Miss Church
Aramintha Brown Miss Pierce
Helen Paton Miss Wolstan
Mr. Whiteside's new play is of the old sort framed in hychitecture like Sheridan and other dramatists of his time used. The actor is thoroughly charming and delightful, but the play, beantifully and delleately staged, nowhere permits of great acting. It does, however, give Mr. Whiteside opportunity for subtile and finished work. His artistic genius makes the piercharming. His Omaha friends, and there numbers than might have been anticipated, owing to the electrical parade and the fact that the curtain did not rise until 10 o'clock. David Garrick loses his heart suddenly to the daughter of a rich merchant, who is equally entranced with the actor, the fore. a marriage with one. Sparks, in line of a lordship, and regards the actor as necessarily an individual implying everything but respectability. He pleads with Garrick to leave England so his daughter may be disentangled. The actor listens, amused, but half compassionat and at last proner in the merchant's home, not knowing that the girl is the ope he loves. Of course he discovers the fact, but it is too late to withdraw, and, goaded on by the father, who reminds him of his promise, Garrick plays the drunken cad. The girl is horrified, but her love does not dispair. Accidentally she learns how Garrick has been untrue to himself. A way is found to make made ridiculous by Garrick in a duel. In the second act, where Mr. Whiteside acts the actor who is acting, his real ability is given some chance and interest chapter is ironed out so smoothly and in such a commopplace way that it is disap pointing. Garrick is altogether the central figure and soldom is off the stage. Mr. Whiteside's wonderful voice and his graceful mannerisms, together with a by-p'ay of wit and humor, are thoroughly enjoy-He is supported by a capable company. Miss Wolstan in the part of Helen Paxton is handleapped by the fact that the role is too submerged and gives insufficient presentment of the character. Mr. Sutherland and Mr. Evart are excellent. The play is redolent of chivalry and sentiment and as enacted appeals to the iner side. Performances will be given to night and Saturday matinee and evening.

"Fabio Romani" at the Krug.

The spectacular and thrilling melodrama based on one of Marie Correlli's lurid novels, is receiving adequate presentation for the remainder of the week at the Krug. A big audience that even Ak-Sar-Ben exare many of them, were present in larger citement could not detract from, displayed evidence of entire approval with the initial performance last night. The play moves around a faithless wife, a false friend and a noble, though revenge inspired husband who comes back from the grave to punish the pair who have betrayed him. In his nost of his profession in England. The final act of revenge he too is stricken, and father, material and gross, has arranged with the erring wife buried alive by an eruption from Vesuvius. Several other remarkable stage pictures are shown previous to the finale. The title role is in the hands of Arthur Stanley, a finished actor, while Ella Allen has the difficult part of the heartless wife.

> M'CORD-BRADY'S OPEN HOUSE Big Wholesale Grocers Entertain Visitors for Week at Their Big Store. McCord-Brady company has been keeping

open house all week and yesterday its imnense establishment was crowded from morning until night with out-of-town visall end happily. Sparks, the mercenary, is | itors and customers. At different points throughout the great store stations were introduced to the visitors, tables bountifully provided with the good things of the establishment and presided over by accomodating young women. Probably 500 people lunched with the house yesterday. The nenu offered with open-handed hospitality included many delicacies and not a few substantials. Before reaching the tables the guest was escorted past the agricultural exhibit-apples from Sheridan county, potatoes from Saunders, squash from Sherman, fruits from Boone, corn, fat, ripe ears, from Merrick and York, and other products from various parts of the state. The location of the luncheon stations made it necessary for the visitors to traverse the half mile of store floor in order to reach the edibles, and in doing this the workings and immensity of the establishment was opened up before them. It is safe to say not one of the guests passed the great peanut roaster without helping himself or herself. It is one of the rules of the house that peanuts are at all times available to the visitor. The supply was large enough to feed the Ak-Sar-Ben whale or a month or two.

Today and Saturday McCord-Brady will keep open house, and the peanut roaster, the pancake baker and the cigar counter hosts will be very busy.

WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

The lowa branch of the Association of college Alumnae met recently at the Hotel Savery in Des Moines and elected Mrs. W. H. Bailey of that city president, Mrs. Bessie Sargent Smith of Dubuque was chosen vice president; Miss Della Marquardt of Des Moines, second vice presi dent, and Miss Frances Rogers of lows City, secretary and treasurer. A number of delegates were appointed to the general meeting to be held at St. Louis, November 4, 5 and 6. An effort is to be made to have the State University of Iowa recognized in the general association. graduates feel that they are entitled to this recognition and there was a lengthy discussion of the subject.

If there is any doubt in the minds of those who contributed to the new building fund of the Young Women's Christian association of the worthiness or necessity of such a building, a visit to the central rooms in the Paxton block this week would suffice to dispel it. The rooms are literally headquarters for the hundreds of women from out in the state and from lowa, who are in town this week, besides the hundreds of business women and shoppers who use them every day of the year. There are not chairs or couches enough in the rest rooms and the lunch room is taxed to its utmost to serve the crowd. So far this month an average of 655 woof 10 cents each, and it is estimated that fully 200 have gone away each day, unable to wait to be served.

Mrs. H. M. Bushnell, chairman of the program committee for the Seward meeting of the State Federation, has received a letter from Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver assuring her of his presence at the meeting. He will address the convention Tuesday evening, October II, on the juvenile court and probation system.

Now that the members of the Omaha Woman's club have been roused to the matter of finding new quarters, a lively interest is being manifested. For several years the club has occupied the chapel and auditorium of the First Congregational church, on certain days, at a rental of $100 a year, but for some time the women have felt the rent was too high and investigation proves they can better themselves. Unity church is growing in favor and it is thought it affords sufficient class room as well as accommodation for the music department. Several other places also have been considered.

The Young Women's Christian associaion will hold its annual fall opening recepon Monday evening. In its rooms in the Paxton block. There will be a brief program at 8 o'clock, and the members of the New Book Review club will serve refreshments over in the lunch rooms. Be sure to get The Bee next Sunday, New Color Magazine with Buster Brown and all the popular favorites.
